The method by which information published under this scheme will be made available

Where it is within the capability of DFRS information will be provided on the website (www.derbyshire-fire-service.co.uk). Where it is impracticable to make information available on the website or when an individual does not wish to access the information by the website, DFRS will indicate how information can be obtained by other means and provide it by those means.

In exceptional circumstances some information may be available only by viewing in person. Where this manner is specified, contact details will be provided. An appointment to view the information will be arranged within a reasonable timescale.

Information will be provided in the language in which it is held or in such other language that is legally required. Where DFRS is legally required to translate any information, it will do so.

Obligations under disability and discrimination legislation and any other legislation to provide information in other forms and formats will be adhered to when providing information in accordance with this scheme.

Charges which may be made for Information published under this scheme

The purpose of this scheme is to make the maximum amount of information readily available at minimum inconvenience and cost to the public. Charges made by DFRS for routinely published material will be justified and transparent and kept to a minimum.

Material which is published and accessed on a website will be provided free of charge.

It has been custom and practice for DFRS to charge interested parties, such as insurance companies, for the provision of Incident Recording Forms and fire investigation reports.

The charges are:

- an abstract report (data extracted from the completed Incident Report £53.60
- short report relating to an investigation £53.60
- full fire investigation report £ £199.40

Reports supplied to the police, coroner's service, local authorities or housing associations (concerning housing and not vehicles) will be provided free of charge.

DFRS can charge for requests processed under the Data Protection Act. The enquirer can be charged up to £10 (this can rise to £50 for access to certain medical and education records). It is DFRS policy not to charge for DPA requests.

If the estimated cost of providing the information is above the appropriate limit set by Freedom of Information Act 2000 (£450) then DFRS is entitled to charge for the costs directly and reasonably incurred whilst locating the information asked for and the format requested. A 'fees notice' will be issued before information is provided and the enquirer asked whether they want to amend their request for information or pay for it to be supplied.

Written requests

Information held by DFRS that is not published under this scheme can be requested in writing, when its provision will be considered in accordance with the provisions of the Freedom of Information Act.
